"RED WIDOW" TRIAL PARIS SENSATION

The Court Is Intolerably Inquisitorial and Severe—Lefebvre's Confession Is a Fake

MME. STEINHEIL IS DRAMATIC

Sympathy of French Public Is with the Woman and Her Release Is Expected

PARIS, Nov. 5.—With a tearful appealing smile at the jury that is trying her for her life, Mms Marguerite Steinheil staggered from the witness stand today in her trial for the murder of her husband and mother, at the end of three days of battling against continuous brutal, browbeating and bullying by the president of the assize court, Justice De Valles, the prosecutor general, and the other members of the court.

The wan, haggard, almost feeble figure that stumbled from before the tribunal was but a wraith of the brilliant woman whose beauty captivated French presidents and politicians and whose influence swayed French politics.

To the end of the terrible inquisition Mme. Steinheil preserved her dramatic emotional attitude. As De Valles, almost exhausted himself by the terrific deluge of questions and accusations that he poured at the woman, motioned her away, indicating that her examination was concluded, she grasped weakly at the wooden railing before her, leaned heavily on the gendarme who stood beside her—then, with a sudden straightening of her slight body, gained control of herself—and stumbled heavily to a chair beside her counsel Maitre Aubin.

At no point in her three days' ordeal did Mme. Steinheil make an admission damaging her case. She held steadfastly to her story that her husband and mother were murdered by three men and a woman, the former clothed in long robes and the latter, a red haired female. Clever, sarcastic cross examination and brutal denunciation alike failed to shake her.

Old Love the Motive

The trend of the government's proof in establishing a motive for the murder was revealed shortly before Mme. Steinheil was excused when De Valles questioned her at length on her relations with M. Borderel, whom she admits was her lover, and to marry whom the state contends she murdered her husband.

"Why did you return to Borderel, your lover, after your husband was dead?" asked De Valles.

This gave Mme. Steinheil opportunity for another emotional display.

"The whole world was against me," she sobbed, stretching her arms toward the jury. "I had no one to turn to. Every one believed I had committed the crime. Alone—with no one to lean on—I revived my love."

Here she gave way entirely to her emotion and a recess was taken.

Accuses Her Servant

Upon the resumption of court, the madame explained her accusation of her servant Remy Couillard, whom she charged with the murder, claiming to have found a pearl in his possession which she said was stolen the night of the crime. She said that she was driven to accuse the servant by newspapers, annonymous letters and several of her friends who were certain that the servant was guilty.

After bullying, denouncing and sneering at the quivering woman with questions of the most brutal nature for nearly two hours, De Valles prepared for a coup. Mme. Steinheil was trembling violently and was almost exhausted.

A Brutal Method

De Valles turned to the jury, "Gentlemen," he said, "you will please watch the prisoner carefully and see closely. I am about to ask a most important question. It will undoubtedly affect her greatly. She will probably faint."

Mme. Steinheil crouched in her place weeping, waiting for the blow to fall .A rumor swept the court room as the purpose of the judge to deliberately unnerve the woman became apparent. But Maitre Aubin, Mme. Steinheil's counsel, was on his feet in a moment.

Counsel Defends Her

"You are going too far," he shouted excitedly, "for three days, you, Monsieur President, the prosecutor general, and other members of the court have bullied, denounced and verbally lashed the unfortunate woman without allowing her defense in any particular. Now it is time to call a halt."

A buzz of approval sounded through the court room and De Valles forbore to put the momentous question.

More Abuse

Mme. Steinheil explained she had hidden the pearl in Couillard's pock-

MUELLER'S CRIME IS ONE OF BRUTALITY

GOVERNOR GUARDS FIENDS FROM MOB

West Virginia Executive in Person Heads Militia in Effort to Prevent a Double Lynching

GASSAWAY, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Guarded by two companies of the national guard, over whom Gov. E. W. Glasscock had been in personal command all night, Scott Lewis and A. Johnson, the two negroes who were arrested and held here as accomplices to the brutal assault on Mrs. Albert Rockhold, were spirited from the mayor's office at daybreak today and taken to Sutton, the county seat, where they were locked in jail.

Gov. Glasscock and Adjt. Gen. Burrows left here for Charleston on a special train at 6:50 a. m., and quiet again reignsafter hours of the greatest excitement, when it was expected any moment that the mob of 2,000 men surrounding the house where the negroes were confined would storm the place and lynch the men.

So serious had the situation become late yesterday that the governor and adjutant general hurried here from Charleston on a special train arriving at 7:30 p. m. Gov. Glasscock addressed the mob, entreating them to allow the negroes to be taken to Sutton and placed on trial. The mob merely cheered the governor for his loyalty to the state but stood their ground. The situation was made more acute by members of the militia companies openly asserting they would never fire a shot if an assault was made.

The state has never been so aroused over an assault as this one, for which Charles Lewis, a third negro implicated, has already given his life to the mob. The posse hunting Lewis, shot him on Wednesday night.

Johnson and Scott Lewis were given a secret hearing and positively identified by both Rockhold and his wife, as the men who entered their home Wednesday morning.

With the complete recovery of Mrs Rockhold further details of the attack have become known, which show the work of the fiends to have been the boldest and most brutal in the history of the state.

REED TAKES NEW MOTIONS IN HAND

Judge Reed in circuit court this morning heard attorneys in the suit if Marquardt against the Lighting company in which the jury awarded the plaintiff $10.750 for judgment, and also motions of the defendant's attorneys for changed answers and to have the verdict set aside. The court took the arguments under advisement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Fifty thousand dollars for a story of 42,000 words is a new high record even in this country, but this is what Commander Robert E. Peary is to receive from Hamptons Magazine for the story of his dash to the north pole.

CHARLIE GONDORF IN TOILS AGAIN

Famous "Wire-tapper", Well Known in La Crosse, Is Arrested in New York City

Charles Gondorf, well known here as one of the slickest "wire tappers" in the country, once defendant in a suit to recover $80 lost at dice, instituted by Dr. R. F. Weston, and connected with famous swindling schemes, is held under $2,000 bonds in New York for attempting to rob a woman.

The story of Gondorf's latest escapade is contained in the New York World of Sunday, October 31, as follows:

"Detectives Gaynor, Toner and Mugge of the Central office were on Broadway Friday night when they heard the cries of a woman. They found her near Twenty-seventh street and Broadway, holding on to a well-dressed, middle-aged man, who, she said, had tried to steal her money.

"'This lady is evidently making a terrible mistake,' said the man. 'I am a gentleman, as you will see.'

"But the detectives escorted him to Police headquarters and put him in a cell. Yesterday morning, when he was lined up for inspection, the detective cried out in chorus:

"'Well, if it ain't Charlie Gondorf, "King of the Wiretappers!"'

"Lieut. Dunn read the prisoner's pedigree, telling how he had figured in 'sure thing' games and wiretapping schemes all over the country, including his connection with William F. Walker, now in Wethersfield state prison for looting the New Britain, Conn., Savings bank. Gondorf, according to Walker, played a large part in fleecing the Connecticut bank out of $390,000. After Inspector McCafferty had made sure that Gondorf's likeness was in the Rogues gallery he was taken to Jefferson Market court and arraigned before Magistrate Steinert.

"The complainant gave her name as Marie Edwards and said she lived at No. 333 West Forty-second street. Of course nobody expected the number was correct. It is the address of a church, but the detectives assured the court that 'the lady will surely press the charge.' She said she met Gondorf in Broadway without the formality of an introduction and that while they were talking in a hallway he tried to steal $10 from her.

"Gondorf had not a word to say and he was held for the grand jury in $2,000 bail.

"'Graft in the wiretapping line must be pretty bad when a fly guy like Charlie Gondorf has to rob a woman,' said the detectives as they left court."

FARMER KILLED BY MILWAUKEE TRAIN

TOMAH, Wis., Nov. 5.—(Special—Ed Breslin, a farmer who lived between Wilton and Kendall, was killed by a train on the Milwaukee road at Tunnel City Thursday morning. He had been attending to some business in Sparta and had become intoxicated striking the Milwaukee road instead of the Northwestern when he started for home. A man by the name of Burke saw him get on, and asked him where he was going. He said that he was bound for Wilton, and Burke told him that he was on the wrong road. But Breslin said that he was all right, so nothing more was said. But when he got near Tunnel City he saw some lights and realized that he was in the wrong place. He hastily started to get off, but slipped and fell falling under the wheels of the train so that he was terribly bruised about the body.

Engineer J. Little happened to turn back just as he fell from the train and upon reaching Tomah notified the authorities there who went back to the place and picked up the remains lying beside the track.

Thomas Breslin of Elroy, a brother of the deceased, went to Tomah to care for the remains, which will be shipped to Kendall for interment.

Deceased leaves a wife and six children.

COTTON SCHEDULE A PUBLIC PLUNDER

La Follette Shows New Schedule Is 25 Per Cent Higher Under New Tariff Law

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 5.—Charging that the cotton schedule in the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill permits the protective policy to become a plunder policy, United States Senator La Follette denounces that schedule bitterly in this week's issue of La Follette's Magazine.

Under the caption "The Disgrace of the Cotton Schedule," the leading editorial says in part:

"In the cotton schedule of the Dingley law, perversion of the protective principle was conspicuous in all its forms. In the Payne-Cannon-Aldrich 'downward revision' tariff, the outrages of the cotton schedule areperpetuated and accentuated. The power behind this new cotton schedule was the power of successful public plunder. And the incentive to it was more plunder.

"Under the Dingley cotton schedule, the duties levied on the imports of 1907 amounted to a fraction less than 45 per cent of the value of the goods imported.

* * * *

"The duties of the Payne-Cannon-Aldrich cotton schedule applied to the importation of 1907 would average over 50 per cent of the value of the goods. Under the new schedule there are more prohibitive duties higher than before.

* * * *

"Conservatively estimated, the new schedule is at least 25 per cent higher than the old.

"There is no justification for increasing the cotton schedule. The labor cost in cotton manufacture in this country is decreasing, not increasing."

The editorial declares the average wage of cotton mill operatives in 1905 was $6.47 a week and the pay of skilled operatives but $8.53 a week.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TANGLE STILL OPEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—No one in authority in the First church, Scientist, the wealthiest Christian Science church in the country, could be found today who would predict the outcome of the open clash that has arisen between the local and parent institution. According to Eugene Cox, head of the local publication committee, the affair is so complicated that it is impossible to forecast the result.

A Local Matter.

PIERCE CHILDREN'S EARS? WHY NOT CATS?

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—The latest in feline decoration, the piercing of a cat's ears, in order that it may have tassels to match its furs, has received the official sanction of the Ohio Humane society.

Friday Sylvia Yumance was brought before Secretary Oscar Trounstine of the Humane society on complaint of a neighbor, because she had had the ears of her favorite Maltese cat pierced and decorated in the above manner. The cat also was present and seemed so hugely pleased with its artificial adornment that Secretary Trounstine ruled that if it is not cruel to pierce the ears of children to wear earrings it is not cruel to pierce the ears of cats.

ROOSEVELT DEAD IS A FALSE RUMOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—A Wall street rumor that Col. Theodore Roosevelt had been killed, created some excitement here today, but a dispatch from Nairobi, Africa, where he is hunting, brands the story as a fabrication. It is charged here that the rumor was started by Wall street people for its effect on the market.

TWO HUSBANDS OF SAME WIFE MEET

Mrs. William R. Hayner

OAKLAND, Cal.—"We are two men stung by the same woman," is a statement made by William R. Hayner and Edmund Theile of San Francisco to District Attorney Thomas P. Boyd of Marin county some time ago, that led to the arrest of Mrs. Hayner or Mrs. Thiele at the Alta, Visto apartment house, 1658 Castra street, on a charge of bigamy. And confused in the story of double husbands and mutual wife is the opposed statement of Mrs. Hayner-Theile. She admits that she did not secure a divorce from Hayner, but contends that Theile knew this when he married her in San Rafael last June, but pleaded that he could not wait until she secured the decree. Theile declares that he knows now that his supposed wife is Hayner's spouse, but denies that he knew it until some time after his void marriage to her. If the woman can prove thatTheile knew that she was wedded when he married her a charge of complicity in her offense may be lodged against the man.

The whole transaction is explained by the fact that Mrs. Hayner is a beautiful and attractive woman.

The old property in the coutheastern residence district of the city has been taken off Mr. Hackner's hands by the board of trade.

Quigley is in a serious condition, although it is believed he will recover. A charge of murder has been placed against him.

The pair had been married a little over a year, and Quigley was angered, it is said, because his father-in-law had censured him for intemperance.

TEACHERS ARE NOT GIVEN ENOUGH PAY

Two-thirds in the State Receive Insufficient Compensation, Says Prof. Atherton

STATISTICS ARE QUOTED

Changes Made During the Year by Schools Show Inefficiency, He Says

That the teaching profession at the present time is passing through a period of transition, is the bilief of some of the local pedogogues who have made a study of the situation for some time. Every year the number of teachers comprising the forces in all the schools in the state from normal schools down to the first class graded schools change to a great degree. Many of the teachers are no doubt forced to leave and a better successor is provided by the school board. But the greater number leave of their own free will.

This annual change in the school forces of the state does not produce the best and the most efficient results. According to statistics compiled there are very few teachers in the state of Wisconsin who have been located at any one school for any number of years, so as to become familiar with the environment, the youth of the city and above all the conditions of the families and the home life enough to know how to develop that child intelligently when gets to the department in the school where that teacher may be in charge.

Low salaries are credited with causing these conditions to a great extent.

One-Third Underpaid

"My idea," said Professor Lewis Atherton of the local normal school when seen in regard to the subject, "is that two-thirds of the teachers of Wisconsin are grossly underpaid. The other one-third are getting their full value. There should be a general pruning before any attempt is made to advance the salaries. The boards of education need education in what really good schools consist of."

One hundred and sixty-one high schools in the state changed over 50 per cent of their teaching force for this year and 28 changed all their teachers but 30 keeping their force intact from last year.

Changes in State

This fact is borne out by the following statistics compiled from the official school directory of 1909-10 from the state department of education of which C. P. Carey is superintendent.

As compared with that of 1908-09 some interesting figures relative to changes in teachers in the public schools are obtained.

Normal president, number of teachers,8; new in position this year, 3.

County training schools, number of teachers, 59; new in position this year, 14.

County agricultural schools, number of teachers 15; new in position this year, 9.

City superintendents, number of teachers, 65; new in position this year, 11.

County superintendents, number of teachers, 72; new in position this year, 20.

Teachers of Deaf, number of teachers, 41; new in position this year, 15.

High School principals, number of teachers, 287; new in position this year, 104.

High School teachers, number of teachers, 1029; new in position this year, 517.

Teachers in graded schools, 1st class, number of teachers, 1759; new in position this year, 433.

Total number of teachers, 2335; total new in position this year, 1126.

COTTON TALKS TO STATE TEACHERS

President of Normal School Makes Interesting Address Before Convention of Educators

SUBJECT "COUNTRY SCHOOL"

Declares it Is Center of Social, Religious and Political Life of Community if Properly Conducted

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 5.—(Special.—Prof. Fassett A. Cotton, president of the new La Crosse Normal school, was the prominent speaker at today's session of the teachers convention here. Mr. Cotton talked on the educational problem of the country school and said in part:

"The great educational problem of the country school is the one of the relation of country schools to country life and as yet few have realized its stupendous importance. Upon its solution depends in large measure the future welfare and stability of our people. This is no idle statement. A study of the factors involved will show that it is true. To arrive at conclusions of any value at least three phases of country life must be studied:

"1. The material and commercial progress.

"2. Social life in the country.

"3. The country school.

"(a) The consolidated school.

"(b) The district school.

(c) The school the center of social life.

"A consideration of these phases makes necessary the consideration of two others, namely:

"4. The training of teachers.

"5. Salaries.

1—Material and Commercial Progress

"The change in farming methods is one of the marvels of the country. With forests cleared and swamp lands redeemed, the steam plow does the work of many men. The soil is prepared by machinery, planted by machinery, cultivated by machinery, and the harvest is gathered by machinery. The sickle, the scythe, the cradle, and the flail have given way to the mower, the self-binder and header, and the steam thresher. The dairy, from milking to butter making, has become scientific. Chicken raising and stock growing have become matters of intelligence instead of chance. Good roads, steam railways, interurbans, rural routes, and telephones have all but eliminated time and distance and have brought the farm in close touch with every day life in the commercial world. Easy transportation and the knowledge of market prices have brought the farmer a fair return for his products. While this progressive spirit has in a way touched all farm life, this does not by any means tell the whole story.

"It is still a far cry from the small hill-country farm to the wide western plains where farming is done on so large a scale. The difference between what may be called domestic farming and commercial farming is tremendous. It is the difference between a small firm owned and occupied and cultivated by the owner for a living, and the landed estate owned by a syndicate or a wealthy individual and farmed for commerce. More and more as the years come and go must millions of our people get their living from the land; and more and more must domestic farming become a dominant factor in the life of our people.

"It is with this phase of farming rather than with commercial farming on a large scale that this discussion has to deal, and it involves at once the questions of social life and education of the family. After all, it is the family that lives on the farm that makes the problem an interesting one.

2—Social Life in the Country

"Before any reliable conclusions can be reached, certain mistaken notions must be corrected. Doubtless the stories of farming by machinery and the great results of commercial farming are responsible for these. To the unthinking, farming has come to be one long holiday picnic when everybody rides. Nothing can be farther from the truth. Even with the most approved machinery there is plenty of work for head and hand on the farm; and when it is realized that the use of all this up to date machinery is by no means general, and, more than that, that its use would be impossible on small broken country farms, it will be apparent that there is still work to do. Moreover, the present adjustment of industrial conditions makes it almost impossible for farmers in many localities to secure help in their busy seasons, and the burden at times is heavy. Add to this that much farming is still unscientific and extensive instead of scientific and intensive and the real conditions may in a measure be understood.

"It looks as though the same forces that brought farm life in touch with the commercial world might bring it in touch with the social world; that they might make possible the pleasures, comforts, luxury and culture of city life with none of its unpleasant features. But it must be admitted that this possibility has not been very generally realized. In many instances the social life of the people has not kept pace with material prosperity. Big barns filled with grain, wide fields over which blooded stock roams, and the latest farm machinery have often kept the dwelling house small and barren enough of comfort and beauty. Often the farm home that has taken on pretentious external dimensions is cheerless and comfortless within. The hard work and drudgery incident to successful farming, distributed as it is to all the members of the household, and the isolated mode of life that farmers live, are not conducive to social progress.

"And so it may be fairly stated

THE FARMERS WAKING UP

"If you are a farmer, did you ever stop to inquire what makes your land valuable? It is not the land itself, nor you; that's certain.

"Suppose your land, with all its great natural fertility, your splendid methods of cultivation, were located in the middle of Arizona, with no other cultivated ground and no railroads within hundreds of miles of it.

"It wouldn't be worth much, would it?

"The sole reason your land is of more than nominal value is because a community has grown up around it.

"If you acquired your land years ago when the neighborhood in which you live was sparsely settled, you have had the pleasure of watching it grow in value as the community has grown and prospered.

"First came the neighborhood farms, then the towns, finally the railroads, which the towns brought near to your land, all contributing to yours and the general prosperity.

"It must be clear to you, in the light of history, that your interests can continue to grow and prosper only if the entire community in which you live shall continue to grow and prosper.

"If your community goes backward; if its growth and prosperity are retarded, the growth and prosperity of your individual interests are retarded."

Is not this sound argument? The man who bought his farm for $2,000 ten or fifteen years ago and holds it at $6,000 or $8,000 or $10,000 or $15,000 now, should be able to appreciate its force, for he is $4,000 or $6,000 or $8,000 or $13,000 richer now simply because a prosperous city has grown up out of our old lumbering town and his farm has increased proportionately in value.

The moral is: Support your home town, its markets, its stores, its institutions. DISCARD THE MAIL ORDER CATOLOGUE, FOR IT IS THE GUIDE BOOK TO RUIN!

When the Dry Farmers' convention, one thousand strong met "Jim" Hill's reference to Senator Aldrich as a "great statesman" with a roar of laughter, the strongest arraignment of that pernicious misrepresentative was made. To be berated is sometimes aggravating, but to be laughed at is humiliating. To these sturdy citizens of the great west Aldrich is a huge joke.

MONEY WELL SPENT

Mothers in La Crosse will appreciate the generosity of Mrs. G. C. Hixon in providing the high school with a trainer to give the girls of the institution physical training. That women are too prone to shun gymnastics and other forms of physical exercise is a regrettable fact, and the introduction of this work into the school life of girl students is certain to be productive of good results. There is no more reason why we may not train up robust and healthy girls than there is for the rearing of physical weaklings of the other sex, and recognition of this fact by modern schools is a good beginning in the right place.

Mrs. Hixon's gift sets an example of public spirit that, even at the expense of annoying her with distasteful publicity, we feel should be displayed before the men and women of La Crosse. It illustrates how we are constantly confronted by opportunity for doing good, and its publication may move others to bestow thought upon the things that may be done to make better men and women. The appreciation which the Mothers' and Teachers' association doubtless feel will be shared by all who are interested in our educational institutions, and emphasizes the fact that citizens of La Crosse are coming to realize the needs of the schools more than they have done in the past. If the donor of this gift is permitted to see one aenemic girl grow strong and robust as the result of her contribution we doubt not she will feel repaid for her liberality.

It is a passing thought, also, that this act of a private citizen may inspire the city council to more liberal support of school endeavor. A few thousand dollars annually added to physical culture, manual training and domestic science work would make the schools a much better investment.

SAN FRANCISCO'S DISGRACE

All lovers of the honor of the beautiful western city are ready to offer their sympathy with that large minority who were defeated at the Tuesday's election.

The rejection of Heney and the return to open corruption and vice graft is a worse blow to the city than the earthquake. The wrecking of a million dollars worth of property is as nothing compared to the rejection of redemption from the worst forms of political corruption.

The city can recover from its loss of property and may bow with righteous sorrow over the death by disaster of some of its citizens but it can never wipe out the stain which follows its own consent to the vilest methods that ever corrupted a city government.

Not Within His Rights

"Can I have two good seats, well down, not behind a post, and on the isle?" asked the quiet getntleman at the box office window.

"Three dollars apiece," replies the ticket seller, slamming out two tickets that call for seats in the last row, behind a post, and in the middle of the row at that.

"But these aren't what I want," objects the man.

"Can't help that. Got to take 'em or nothin'," responds the ticket seller obviously irritated.

"Look here, young man, that's no way to talk to people who come here to buy seats."

"Huh! You talk as if you owned the theater."

"I do. I happen to be the new owner."

"Then git away and let people that want to buy seats have a chance. You know very well you can get in for nothing."—Life.

I'd Like to See the Liver of a Fat Man

This is the expression of a medical man who said that the liver of a fat man must present a wonderful sight when that man is alive and performing his regular duties. The liver is the largest organ in the human body. The stomach calls on the liver and so does the blood. If the liver gives to the digestive apparatus improper juices then the digestion is wrong. This is what makes people fat. The liver is not right. On popular demand we have made the famous Marmola Prescription into Tablets, which are eaten after meals just like food and they digest that food as it should be digested. They remove fat already accumulated at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces per day and leave no wrinkles or flabby skin. Carry one in your vest pocket or purse when you dine out and eat what you will. Fasting, diet and exercise will not reduce fat. You only starve the body and by tearing down other organs you bring the fat with the rest of the destruction. Marmola tablets are sold by all druggists and in greater quantity than all the other so-called fat reducers combined. There most be merit in them or their sale could not be growing larger every month. Ask any druggist or if you prefer send 75 cents to The Marmola Company, Dept. 791, Detroit, Mich., and they will send you a large case of Marmola Tablets in plain package by mail.

LIVE WIRES

Gov. Hughes as he would look in the sombre robes of justice of the supreme court.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Governor Hughes of New York may have the successorship to Associate Justice Rufus W. Peckham of the supreme court if he wants the position. President Taft is in a measure pledged to Governor Hughes for the supreme bench, if he wants it. Last summer during the celebration attending the discovery of Lake Champlain, President Taft announced that Governor Hughes would grace the supreme bench. At that time there was no vacancy on the supreme bench and the compliment seemed gratuitous.

It is recalled now as weighted with significance. Justice Peckham was from the federal district including New York. Governor Hughes would represent the same district. It is rumored that Governor Hughes at that time promised President Taft he would call upon him at any time and would find him willing.

His removal from the New York political field might help Senator Root and Collector Loeb to recognize the republican state machine along lines desired by the Roosevelt followers. Next to Governor Hughes the politicians place Secretary of War J. C. Dickinson as the possible successor to Justice Peckham. Mr. Dickinson has powerful backing and it is said he would like the berth. There is doubt that Governor Hughes would accept.

It is admitted here that all is guess-work on President Taft's position. He has given no indication who he prefers. The president is a strict constructionist of the constitution and it is said no one will find favor with him who leans to a liberal construction.

A man can be so proud of getting down to breakfast nearly on time that he can get mad with his wife for not saying it's because he's so smart she had to call him only three times.

There is mighty little use in being so good that everybody will wish you were a horse thief, so you could be tolerated.

Oh! My Back

Every Man and Woman Reading This Paper Who Suffers From Kidney Troubles is Invited To Prove the Benefit of Electropodes.

At last diseases of the kidneys of which pain in the back is usually the merciful warning, seem to have met their conqueror.

This is not conjecture or a mere hope; it is a fact, accomplished and proven. The discovery, or rather the invention, is the most simple contrivance imaginable. No medicines are used since none of these have been found to do any more than merely stimulate for the time being.

This discovery, which is working such wonders in the treatment of diseases, is called "Electropodes." It causes an effective electric charge to penetrate the entire body, especially the vital organs and the nerves. Electricity has been called life. Now it has been proven to be even more. —it is health supreme and vigor unsurpassed.

Electropodes, as a result, have been proven to have a remarkable curing power over kidney troubles, backache, lumbago, rheumatism, stomach and liver troubles, neuralgia, nervous prostration, insomnia and weak heart.

A few days' use of Electropodes proves it. Electropodes are different from any other electric appliance, in that they make no electricity except when actually in use. They are in the form of metallic insoles placed inside the heels of the shoes.

Electropodes are so made that they can never be uncomfortable when worn, and are invisible. They are designed to electrify the whole body, turn it into a healthy, powerful magnet, and disease disappears.

If this is hard for you to believe, it will cost you nothing to prove it absolutely. Electropodes are sold at drug stores on an iron-clad written legal contract, signed by your druggist, for $1.00 a pair. If at the end of a full 30 days you are not satisfied with the Electropodes and connot say they are the most wonderful treatment you ever used, your money will be cheerfully refunded.

If your druggist has no Electropodes on hand send your remittance to the Electropode Co., Suite 17 Holland Block, Lima, Ohio, and you will get a pair together with our signed contract, binding us to satisfy you, or positively refund your money. Say whether for lady or gentleman.

A Dakota Story

I was talking with a Dakotan the other day. "Speaking of farms," he said, "we have some sizable farms out in Dakota. Yes, sir, I've seen a man on one of our big farms start out in the spring and plough a straight furrow till fall. Then he turned around and harvested back."

"Wonderful!" said I.

"On our Dakota farms," he went on, "it's the usual thing to send young married couples out to milk the cows. Their children bring the milk."

"Wonderful!" I repeated.

"Once," he said. "I saw a Dakota farmer's family prostrated with grief. The women were weeping, the dogs were barking, the children were squalling and the tears ran down the farmer's cheeks as he hitched up his twenty mule team and drove off."

"Where was he going?" said I.

"He was going half way across the farm to feed the pigs."

"Did he ever get back?" I asked.

"It isn't time for him yet," was the reply.—Housekeeper.

"Good gracious, isn't that your husband across the street there quarreling with the man on the opposite porch?"

"Oh, they're not really quarrelling. They dispute that way every night. George is a monoplanist and Mr. Stiggins is a biplanist."—Cleveland Plain Dealed.

The Question

Mary had a little lamb;
For it she ceased to care.
Her affections were transplanted
To a little Teddy bear.

Of this she also wearied,
As so often is the case,
And a saucy Billy 'Possum
Came to take poor Teddy's place.

And now I often wonder,
When Bill's no more the rule,
Will she lavish her affections
On a little Bryan mule?

Making it Plain

The following simple and explicit directions are posted up in a hotel on the Nordfjord:

The fire escape;
Direction for use:

The one end of the rope is to be fixed at the hook in the window frame, the other is to turn out of the window. The plaited spotter, which is fixed at the log of wood, is to be put under your arms, whereupon you may safely let yourself slide down. You may regulate the hurry by keeping the rope under the log. If more persons are to be saved, you have to pull up the contrary end of the rope, fix this at the hook, and go on till nobody is left.—Punch.

Treating

"Wont' you step up an' jine us in a glass o' ginger pop, Si?" said Bill Granger, generously, to old Si Hayseed at the Crossroads store. "I just sold a six-weeks-old calf fer $9, an' don't mind being a little reckless. What you say to a ginger pop?"

"Much obleeged, I'm sure, Bill," said Si, "but the fact is, ginger pop ruther goes to my head, an' I better let it alone."

"That so? Well, what do you say to a glass o' sody? Like to have you jine me in something."

"Well, Bill, sody sort o' stings my throat and makes me sneeze. But if you're bound to stand treat, you might git ginger pop fer th' other boys and if it's all the same to you, I'll take fi' cents' wuth o' tenpenny nails. I come in to git a few fer a fence I got to fix, an' if you'd as soon I took the nails as a drink, I'm agreeable."

"All right, all right, Si. Anything to keep the baby quiet, as the sayin' is. Here, Mr. Storekeeper, you do Si up fi' cents' wuth o' nails an' take it out of this quarter!"—St. Louis Republic.

CHAPTER XI.

Two Ladies on a Balcony.

The outer aspect of Ardsley is, frankly, feudal. The idea of a North Carolina estate had grown out of Ardmore's love of privacy and his wish to get away from New York, where his family was all too frequently struck by the spot light. The great tract of land once secured he had not concerned himself about a house but had thrown together a comfortable bungalow which satisfied him for a year. But Ardmore's gentle heart, inaccessible to demands of many sorts, was a defenseless citadel when appeals were made to his generosity. A poor young architect, lately home from the Ecole des Beaux Arts, with many honors but few friends, fell under Ardmore's eyes. The towers and battlements that soon thereafter crowned the terraced slopes at Ardsley, etching a noble line against the lovely panorama of North Carolina hills, testified at once to the architect's talent for adaptation and Ardmore's diminished balances at the Bronx Loan and Trust Company.

On a balcony that commanded the sunset—a balcony bright with geraniums that hung daringly over a ravine on the west, Mrs. Atchison and Miss Jerry Dangerfield were cosily taking their tea. Their white gowns, the snowy awning stirring slightly in the hill air, the bright trifles of the tea-table mingled in a picture of charm and contentment.

"I wonder," said Mrs. Atchison abruptly, "where Tommy is?"

"I have no definite idea," said Jerry, pouring cream, "but let us hope that he is earning his salary."

"His salary?" and Mrs. Atchison's brows contracted. "Do you mean that my brother is taking pay for this mysterious work he is doing?"

"He shall be paid in money," replied Jerry with decision. "As I have only the barest acquaintance with Mr. Ardmore, never, in fact, having seen him until a few days ago, it would be very improper for me to permit him to serve me except under the rules that govern the relations of employer and employe."

Mrs. Atchison smiled with the wise tolerance of a woman of the world; and she was a lady it must be said, who had a keen perception of that sane and ample philosophy of life which proceeds, we may say, for the sake of convenience, from the sense of humor. She did not like to be puzzled; and she had never in her life been surprised, least of all by any word or deed of her singular brother Tommy. She liked and even cultivated with daring the inadvertent turns in a day's affairs. The cool fashion in which her brother had placed the daughter of the governor of North Carolina in her hands on board her car at Raleigh had amused her. She had learned nothing from Jerry of the beginnings of that young woman's acquaintance with the master of Ardsley—an acquaintance which seemed to be intimate in certain aspects but amazingly distant and opaque in others. Miss Geraldine Dangerfield, like Mrs. Atchison herself, was difficult to surprise, and Tommy, Ardmore's sister admired this in any one and she particularly admired it in Jerry, who was so charming in so many other ways. Mrs. Atchison imagined that Jerry's social experience had been meager, and yet the girl accepted the conditions of life at Ardsley as a matter of course and in the gatherings of the house party Jerry—there was no denying it—held the center of the stage.

The men—including the Duke of Ballywinkle—hung upon her lightest word, which often left them staggering; and she frequently flung the ball of conversation into the blue ether with a careless ease that kept expectancy a-tiptoe in the minds and hearts of all the company.

"I hope," said Mrs. Atchison, putting down her cup and gazing dreamily into the west, "that you have not given Tommy any commission in which he is likely to fail. If it were a matter of finding a fan you had left behind somewhere, or even of producing an extinct flower from the Andes, he would undoubtedly be faithful to the trust imposed upon him; but in anything that is really serious, really of importance one should never depend on Tommy."

This was, as the lady knew, almost vulgarly leading; but Jerry folded her arms, and spoke out with charming frankness.

"I have heard my father say," said Jerry, "that incapable men often rise to great opportunities when they are pushed. Mr. Ardmore has undertaken to perform for me a service of the greatest delicacy and not unattended by danger. You have been kind to me, Mrs. Atchison, and as you are my chaperon and entitled to my fullest confidence it is right for you to know just how I came here, and why your brother is absent in my service."

For once curiosity bound Mrs. Atchison in chains of steel.

"Tell me nothing, dear, unless you are quite free to do so," she murmured; but her heart skipped a beat as she waited.

"I should not think of doing so except of my own free will," declared Jerry, carelessly following the flight of a hawk that flapped close by toward the neighboring woods. "It may interest you to know that just now your brother, Mr. Thomas Ardmore, is the governor of North Carolina. He does not exactly know it, for at Raleigh I myself was governor of North Carolina at the time we met and I only made Mr. Ardmore my private secretary; but when it became necessary to take the field I placed him in full charge, and he is now not only governor of the Old North State, but also the commander-in-chief of her troops in the field."

With a nice feeling for climax Jerry paused, picked a lump of sugar from the silver bowl on the tea-table, bit the edge of it daintily, and tossed it to the robins that hopped on the lawn beneath.

Mrs. Atchison moved forward slightly, but evinced no other sign of surprise. The hour, the scene, the girl were all to her liking. She would even prolong the delight of hearing the further history of her brothers amazing elevation to supreme power in an American commonwealth—it was so foreign to all experience, so heavy with possibilities, so delicious in that it had happened to Tommy of all men in the world!

"I trust," she said, smiling a little, "that Tommy will not prove unworthy of the confidence you have reposed in him."

"If he does," said Jerry, slapping her hands together to free them of an imaginary sugar crumb, "I shall never, never marry him."

"Then my I ask, Miss Dangerfield, if you and he are engaged?"

that the home interests have not always kept pace with the material interests of the farm. The mothers and daughters who have borne their share of the burden of toil have been the larger sufferers. Under existing conditions it is not strange that farmers' children are attracted to city life and that they leave the farm. Life is too hard and the social advantages are too few and far between. It has been suggested that the custom of European farmers who live in villages would solve the problem. It is thought that such local centers would relieve the isolation and furnish the much needed social life.

3—The Country School

The real solution of the problem in this country lies in the co-operation of economic, social and educational forces with the school as the center. There is a vital relation between country life and the country school which has not been seen. The country school has not even begun to fulfill its mission, for the simple reason that there has in fact been no country school. Hitherto, all schools have been alike—city, country and town. Their province has not been to educate, to develop boys and girls into men and women, but to impart unrelated facts of arithmetic, geography and history. The country has had such schools, but they have never recognized their distinctive environment or let it make any difference in their mode of procedure. They have never realized that their problm is a distinct one nor that the means are peculiar. The farmers could not solve the problem; they have their own work to do, and it isn't their business. And educators have worshiped tradition so long that it has been almost impossible for them to look fairly and squarely at the nature, conditions, environment and needs of a child and let these determine the process and means of education.

"In order that we may see a little more clearly the relation between country life and the country school, and something more definite concerning the nature of the work of the country school in this relation, it will be necessary for us briefly to state some of the determining factors in planning the work for the children. These are (1) the nature of the child, (2) the environment of the child, and (3) the probable life work of the child. These are, indeed, important principles underlying the construction of the course of study and should help to determine just how subjects should be presented to the children in any community.

(1)—The Nature of the Child

"The child's nature is two-fold—physical and spiritual. Both phases must be provided for in the course of study. On the physical side the ends sought are health, strength and grace. Play, systematic physical training, and constructive hand work suggest themselves as the simplest means for realizing these ends. On the spiritual side the ends sought are (a) clear thinking, (b) appreciation of beauty, and (c) self-control. The products of race-consciousness in each of these phases readily offer themselves as the simplest and best means for developing the individual consciousness in the corresponding phases. There is the world of science for the intellect to feed upon: there are masterpieces of art for the development of the aesthetic, and vast field of constructive work for the cultivation of the artistic; while, for ideals and conduct, there are the world's heroes in the history of life in the past and the abundant concrete life of the present. Surely there is no room for caprice or accident in constructing a course of study.

(2)—The Child's Environment

"So far the discussion might apply to children anywhere and under any conditions. Every child is physical. Every child knows, feels and wills. But every child has a world of his own, built up out of his own concrete, every day experiences, and it is this world of his that must serve as his basis of interpretation. Only through his own eyes can he see. For the town or city there is one set of experiences, one world; and for the country child there is another quite different. The course of study in its construction and presentation must recognize this difference, especially since traditional education has the city life trend. For the town there is one set of problems, ond for the country there is another, each determined by the peculiar environment.

"There is, then, a town problem in teaching and there is a rural problem. This problem is concrete and particular, not abstract. There must be country reading, country arithmetic and country geography. Each subject must be cast in terms of the child's life. The course of study and its subjects must be adjusted to the life of the community. The work in Wisconsin, for example, is absolutely different from the work in Texas. The life, the manners and customs, the climatic differences, the expressions of the people, everything the teachers. Moreover work in difthe tears. Moreover the work in different parts of Wisconsin must vary according to the differences in the life of the people. The work in town and country must vary in the same way. Indeed, no two communities near or remote can be treated exactly alike. The teacher must study the conditions, interests and modes of life in his community and teach his subjects in the light of these. The reading lessons must appeal to the children must in a sense be taken from the life of the children. The arithemetic must be made concrete; the problems must appeal to the common interest. The geography must begin at the school house and must deal with the earth forms in the community, since the child can interpret only in terms of his own experienc. The dominant industry or interest much largely determine the mode of procedure. The particular phase of agriculture, of forestry, of orcharding, of stock raising, of lumbering, of mining, of manufacturing, upon which the material welfare of the people depends will furnish the data for all bubjects, the language for expression, and the basis for interpreting the subject matter of the text. And so the community life must enter into the country school problem; and the teacher who would solve this problem must live in the comunity and become familiar with its life.

School the Center of Activity

Continuing, Mr. Cotton said that in rural communities the school must be the center of the vicinity. With regard to the teachers he said as follows:

"The teachers should be well prepared men and women, thoroughly in touch with the problems and interests of the township, and permanent residents of the community. They should understand the relation of education and agriculture, and should be able to create in the boys and girls a love for the land."

As the center of social life, also, Mr. Cotton declared, the school should stand out prominentl y. It should be the place for holding meetings, religious, political educational and agricultural and there should be corn clubs for the boys, and cooking and sewing clubs for the girls.

That the pupils in the schools be taught to work with his hands, was another opinion expressed by the speaker. He said that the essential thing to be taught the boy is that skillful work is ennobling.

Teachers' qualifications, Prof. Cotton declared, should be made more strict. In the country districts, he declared, all teachers, besides being high school graduates should have at least one year of professional training. Salaries should be materially increased.

"The teacher should, of course, have his annual vacation and every few years should have a part of the year off on half pay for rest, recreation, investigation and added preparation," he added.

In order to secure higher salaries, however, the speaker declared, that it will be necessary to elevate the opinion of the community of the value of the school. "Men are not convinced of the vaule of education," he added.

Men Driven Out

Women coming into the teaching profession, have driven the men out, declared Prof. Cotton. They are largely to blame for existing salary conditions. Where many men are employed the salaries of women are better than where but a few men are employed.The greatest excuse for the poorly paid teachers, however, is that the vast majority of teachers are not professional educators, but are simply using the positions given them as a stepping stone to something else. Concluding he said:

"As the state university is an institution that really represents the problems of the state, so can the district school, with teachers thoroughly prepared, teachers who have taken up the problem of the country school as their lifework,—make the district school the little university of the community, working out the problems of the community and developing leadership. 'So taught, the district school would soon aid the rural community in having better roads, better cattle, better butter, more eggs, and more cows, better seed corn, better alfalfa,' more trees and shrubs to beautify the yards and school grounds, better horses and better school buildings, with more tasteful interior decorations. The school should be a local forum. It should co-opjerate with the church, the library, the farm, the farmers' organizations, with every farmer and every housewife, drawing the community together and making it a better place in which to live."

MARY GARDEN TO WED CRIES FOR HER LOVER

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Mary Garden is going to be maried. She says so herself, but she has the unwomanly habit of keeping a secret, for when she landed from the Adriatic today she declared no one would know the name of her intended until the wedding had taken place—"if it does take place"—she added rather paradoxically.

"He gave me this," she said, pointing to a diamond pendant which she wore at her throat. "I was so lonesome for him I cried all the way over on the steamer."

"It has been reported you said you would enter a convent," Miss Garden was told .

"That report probably came from the fact that I have left the Presbyterian church and have been converted to Roman Catholicism. I love the repose and dignity of the Roman Catholic church. I like the way it dispenses charity; I like the fact that the churches are always open. When I go back to France next spring, I shall be baptized."

She was asked what she meant by saying the United States was a great railroad station.

"That's the way it strikes me," she said, "for Americans are always on the go. Distances are nothing."

Miss Garden declared she is not a suffragette and does not want to be one.

"A woman's brain is two ounces lighter than a man's," she said, "and that's the reason the man is superior to the woman in governmental and business affairs."

PRESIDENT OF DRY FARMING CONGRESS

CONGRESSMAN FRANK W. MONDELL OF WYOMING

BILLINGS, Mont.—The dry farming congress just closing has been anything but a dry convention. Problems of the greatest national importance have been discussed and effective work for the western farmer has been inaugurated which cannot but bring about lasting results.

In the selection of Frank Wheeler Mondell, representative at large from Wyoming, the cause is placed in the hands of an enthusiastic and able exponent of national problems, and especially of dry farming itself.

You often see a fool giving advice to reasonable sensible and modest people, and abusing them because they do not accept his advice.

UNFORTUNATE MEN ARE NOT CHEATS

City Mission Says Forty-one Kept Faith with Them Last Week and Paid for Meals

Despite the fact that there seems to be very little absolute distress from poverty in La Crosse at the present time ,in comparison to the want existing in other cities of this size, citizens would be surprised to learn of the great number of lodgers, and homeless men, who daily visit the City Mission.

In the last thirty days there have been lodged at the City Mission an average of seventeen men daily. Most of them have been fed and positions or work of some kind has been found for them.

Superintendent Norton, the new manager, does not believe in giving anything away. When a man comes to him in distress he puts him on his honor. He is given a bed, for which he is charged ten cents. An order is given him for a week's board at the Wisconsin house, and if he is in need of a coat or pair of trousers he is fitted out with second hand garments which have been donated to the mission. Even the clothes are not given him, however, but are charged to the applicant at from ten to twenty-five cents a garment. "The best way to help a man is to help him help himself," is one of Mr. Norton's mottoes. He takes his charges out and usually finds them some kind of employment.

Out of forty-one orders for meal tickets he issued last week, not a single man cheated him, but came to him with the orders which had been redeemed with cash at the boarding house.

Several of the factories have given the men employment, and while the wages are not high they are sufficient to give applicants a living until more remunerative positions can be found. When nothing else offers, Superintendent Norton equips the men with say and sawbuck and gets them work sawing wood.

PRETTY FURNITURE INSTALLED IN "Y"

Visitors to the new Y. M. C. A. who have gone through the building comment favorably upon the elaborate furniture with which the building has been furnished and which is now all in place.

Finished mostly in golden oak to match the woodwork of the very latest design and of the most elaborate patterns, it attracts the attention of almost every visitor and many questions are asked as to where it was purchased.

Credit for most of the fine furniture which has gone into the structure belongs to S. Gantert of this city. From this store was selected the major part of the elegant furniture, as was also taken the mammoth davenport on which President William H. Taft and party had their pictures taken at the time of the dedication of the building. The Gantert store also furnished the "biggest chair in town" in which President Taft sat on the rostrum before delivering his address in this city.

In the reading room of the building are two magnificent solid quarter oak tables six feet in diameter, of golden oak waxed finish, in the same style as the interior finishing of the room. There are also two flat top writing desks with chairs to match, and twelve arm chairs and three rocking chairs of the same pattern.

A six foot solid oak davenport is one of the noticeable pieces in the lobby, and there are also two round reading tables, four rockers, and eight lobby chairs are arranged around the pillars in the room. The davenport looks very inviting. It is covered with genuine leather, has a built up spring seat, and three beautiful leather cushions.

Four handsome six foot golden oak settees are arranged around the walls in the billiard room, and there are four fine billiard and pool tables, furnished by the Koehler and Hinrichs company.

The game room is equipped with four forty-eight inch square game tables and sixteen chairs to match. The chairs are made so that they will slip under the tables when not in use. They are upholstered in genuine leather.

The outer office has a flat top quarter oak desk, a roll top typewriter deck, and rotary chairs to match. In Secretary Gran's private office are a 66 inch roll top desk, and a six foot flat table with rotary chairs. There is also a mission leather couch and six ordinary library chairs.

Physical Directar Boyd's office is equipped with a mission leather couch, a roll top desk and a rotary chair.

Up stairs in the class rooms 240 comfortable panel back and seat folding chairs have been placed. In the boys' game room adjoining this are twelve arm chairs, two six foot settees, and eight straight back chairs, all in baronial oak finish.

Aside from the furniture in the public part of the structure the store has furnished for the dormitories fifty steel white enamel couches of the latest approved pattern, with a cotton felt mattress, pillow and couch throw for each. The company also provided for each room a handsome leather seated rocking chair in early English finish to match the general finsh of the woodwork in the dormitories.

Three rattan couches have been placed in the business men's drawing room in the basement of the building.

SUBMARINE SHIP TO REVOLUTIONIZE WAR

PARIS, Nov. 5.—A new era in naval warfare is predicted by naval officers as a consequence of the sensational 1,200 mile run by the French submarine boat Papin, which ended at La Rochelle yesterday.

The Papin covered the distance in six days of continuous steaming. Her complete test extended over 21 days, in which time the submarine covered about 2,000 miles.

The radius of action indicated by the 1,200 mile non-stop run of the Papin is considered a most startling departure in submarine navigation. Similar suzmarines, acting in conjunction with dirigible balloons and aeroplanes, would soon render the greatest Dreadnaughts obsolete and the present world navies useless.

SHIP WAS ROBBED WHILE CREW SLEPT

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—It was discovered yesterday that some time between Wednesday and Thursday that robbers on board the Hamburg American line steamer Prince Joachim had gained access to the strong room, blown the door off the safe and escaped with $50,000 in gold. The robbery was probably committed during the night while 100 of the officers and crew were asleep in their quarters. The ship has been placed under police guard and the crew is under surveillance.

The stolen gold was delivered to Purser Adolph Hoertel Wednesday by an agent of the Bank of Nova Scotia. It was Canadian coin and consigned to the Kingston, Jamaica, correspondent of the bank, Prince Joachim being in the West Indian service of the German company.

Comiskey, as owner of the Denver club, according to a rport current here today. It is said the only thing that prevents consummation of the deal is a difference as to the value of the franchise.

WANTS $1,000 FOR AIRSHIP ONE WEEK

Would Be Great Attraction for Winter Show, Says Promoter Demanding Big Sum

J. C. Howell, manager of the Warner Instrument company of Kenosha, Wis., wants the La Crosse board of trade to engage an exhibition here of a Curtiss aeroplane, which they have ready. He says it would be a great drawing card for a winter manufacturers' exhibit, and in this Secretary J. L. Utermoehl agrees with him. It is hardly likely, however, that La Crosse business men would want to pay $1,000 per week and expenses for the attraction. It could not be put into use in the winter, but would merely be an attraction upon the floor.

TO USE BAD CANDY AS REASON FOR BOYCOTT

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—Guy E. Baker, a postoffice clerk, is going to boycott Indianapolis. He has sent a box of stale candy and a letter to Mayor Bookwalter of the Indiana capital, stating that he bought the "goodies" at a shop near the Indianapolis Union station a week ago. He intimated to the executive that unless the mayor sees his money is returned he will never visit Indianolis again.

Baker paid 25 cents for the candy and told the Indianapolis mayor in the letter that, if he is the gentleman people regard him to be, he will see that no more of the stuff is sold. The mayor, so far as is known, has not yet started the wheels of the city machinery in Baker's behalf.

WILL TOM JOHNSON GO TO NEW YORK?

Rumor Says the Cleveland Mayor Plans to Leave for New York—Johnson Makes Statement

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 5.—Notwithstanding the emphatic declaration that he will be a candidate for re-election to a fifth term as mayor two years hence, politicians are busy today with rumors concerning the plans of Mayor Tom L. Johnson after his tenure of office expires Jan. 1. His defeat Tuesday by County Recorder Herman C. Baehr was signalized by the circulation of a persistent report that the mayor had established a residence in New York city and would take possession immediately upon his return to private life.

The mayor's statement, however, would seem to set this report at naught since he has positively declared his intention to become a candidate again when Baehr's term shall have expired. He says he will not change any of his original traction plans in the meantime, but will maintain discreet silence during the republican administration. Further Mayor Tom will not talk of future plans. It is known, however, that he is in bad health and it is not considered improbable that he will seek complete rest for several months.

Although more cheerful than any other of the defeated candidates, Mayor Tom has refrained from discussing the reasons for his dcisive defeat.

"I've been gladder than this before," said Mayor Tom, smiling grimly, "but I am not very sorry."

This comment was made several times when admirers called at his office with sincere regrets at the outcome of the election.

Generally it is believed that Mayor Tom was up against that psychological condition of public sentiment when for no particular reason the people want a change. In some quarters the fear was entertained that the re-election of the mayor might retard or block he traction scheme which seems so near to settlement. On the other hand old timers declare it was a case of the man having outlived his political popularity because the people are tired—not of the man's personality, which is admittedly engaging nor of any set policy he has advocated—but just tired of dictatorship. These same politicians think the mayor may be more useful than ever as a public man two years hence. With his going there is no charge voiced that he has not kept the faith.

ONE TRAGIC DAY IN MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 5.—Two fatal tragedies, one of which may prove a foul murder, occurred in Minneapolis Wednesday night.

Andrew Johnson, a contractor, met death in a South Minneapolis alley. The deputy coroner believes that he met his fate at the hands of a murdered.

And Paul Johnson, a student, ill and tired from overwork, ended his life by drinking carbolic acid.

The body of the young man was discovered today lying on the floor of a room in the Brunswick hotel by a bell boy. Not seeing him about this morning, the bell boy peered over the transom of his bedroom. Beside the body lay a bottle of carbolic acid.

Residents in the vicinity of 19th and Minnehaha Avenues today found the body of a man supposed to be Andrew Johnson, a wealthy contractor, of Mound, Lake Minnetonka, lying in a vacant lot, face downward, a bullet hole in his head. A revolver was found in his left hand. The bullet had entered the right templee and gone through the head. Deputy Coroner Carl Roan, when he discovered this and afterwards learned that neighbors last night heard two shots fired at intervals of ten minutes felt positive that the man had been murdered.

A check book bearing the name of Andrew Johnson, Mound, Lake Minnetonka, was found in the man's clothing. He was about 55 years of age.

SLOW DIGESTION

A Frequent Form of Stomach Trouble Readily Cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

This complaint constitutes one of the most common forms of dyspepsia. It is the bane of those who ignore natural laws, and forget that the healthy action of the stomach is dependent on the condition of both body and mind. Those whose pursuits oblige them to pass much of their time within doors; men of letters, and of business, whose minds are seldom perfectly relaxed, administrators, speculators, financiers, and the various professional men fall ready victims to it.

Slow digestion occurs in persons of all temperaments and habits, but oftenest in those of irritable, or nervous disposition, and anxious aspect of countenance, who are popularly characterized as "dyspeptic looking." Eating too rapidly is a common, exciting cause of the disorder, as is also imperfect mastication of food from loss of teeth.

There is also a deficiency of the gastric juices, and an insufficiency of the motor and muscular, or churning movements of the stomach walls, and the food remains entirely too long in his organ, instead of being passed down into the small intestines at the propertime.

Even a dinner not exceeding the ordinary limits is followed at varying intervals, but usually within an hour, by a feeling of weight and oppression in the stomach. For several hours afterward the person experiences decided discomfort, and should even a light supper be taken, horrible night-mare and troubled dreams, are certain to result.

"I should be quite well, if it were not necessary to eat," is a common statement made by sufferers from this form of stomach complaint. Many of them actually dread the approach of meal time, knowing what disagreeable symptoms they are sure to experience after eating; and would doubtless discontinue the ingestion of food into their stomachs altogether if it were possible to live without eating.

There is really no necessity whatever for depriving one's self of the pleasures of the table, or to starve the rest of the system because the stomach is derelict in its duty, and does not digest the food as quickly or as thoroughly as it should.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets compel the stomach to perform its functions properly and assist it very materially in the discharge of its duties, a single grain of the principal digestive ingredient of these tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of food. They not only digest the food, however, but also tone up and strengthen the peptic glands, and the motor functions, so that the food will not remain in the stomach longer than necessary. Every case of slow digestion and all other forms of dyspepsia are readily curable by the use of these tablets, which make up the gastric deficiency, and supply the disordered stomach with exactly the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy vigorous stomach.

Purchase a package of these wonderful digestors from your druggist today for 50 cents and cure yourself of your dyspepsia. Send us your name and address, and we will forward you a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

REAL SOCIETY "HIGH FLYERS."

Miss Margaret Miller at top Miss Geneva Shaffer at Bottom

OAKLAND, Cal.—Miss Margaret Miller and Miss Geneva Schaffer have given coast society circles a genuine thrill. The usual publicity medium of the divorce court, the automobile wreck and big losses at the gaming tables were too tame for these brave western maids. They sought for the novel in life and they found it. Going up in a balloon is not a new feat of daring for women but a wild race in the clouds is a decided diversion. Always rivals for honors in social circles the two girls entered into the contest with unusual vim and no little feeling.

Miss Miller won, as the balloon in which she was went farther than the Queen of the Pacific. Distance was the condition of the race.

The race was held under the auspices of the Oakland Aero club and was a contest between the city of club, and the Queen of the Pacific Oakland, sailed by J. C. Mars of thot of the San Francisco Aero club. A cup was the trophy raced for. The Queen of the Pacific was compelled to come to the ground before reaching the waters of the bay. The City of Oakland sailed over the water, nearly reached San Francisco and, being borne back by a west wind, landed finally near the Key Route pier at tht foot of B street in West Oakland.

TAFT'S WAY OF HELPING

MACON, Ga., Nov. 5.—During the breakfast at Congressman Bartlett's home, yesterday President Taft asked Senator Bacon if he wanted him to say anything to help his candidacy for re-election.

"I don't think so, thank you," was the reply.

"Well, possibly, it might be better for you if I said something against you," remarked Taft with a grin.

HELEN WANTS OUT

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 5.—Helen Boyle began her second fight for liberty when Attorney Stephen G. Porter filed an appeal in the superior court asking for a reversal of her sentence of 25 years in the Western state penitentiary inflicted in Mercer county after she was convicted of complicity in the kidnaping of "Billy" Whitla from his home in Sharon.

A NOVELTY IN WARFARE.

Men of the Spanish Troops at Melil la Using Slings for Throwing Explosive Grenades.

MELILLA.—While the world is endeavoring to solve the problem of effective offensive warfare by airships, it is a strange coincidence that on the frontier of the only battlefield in the world now active, airships art not being used to any great extend and balloons are only being used for signaling purposes. The one thing which is being used as a novelty and is being found effective is not a new invention, but the use of the old primitive sling. Thus in the land of Xenophon's conquest, where his slingers played so important a part in the warfare, today Spain is using the same sling, but with a new invention which makes it for more effective. Instead of throwing stones, as did Xenophon's warriors, small bombs especially prepared are fired by the Spanish troops against the Riffans, and in the hands of experienced slingers they have become one of the most deadly and fatal weapons of offense.

Forty men of the Chiclana battalion were chosen to wield the slings, and owed their novel position to the fact that they came either from the Ronda mountain region or from among the hill dwellers of Toledo and Estremadura—that is to say, from districts whose people are accustomed to the use of the slings. Speaking of new weapons, it may be recalled that the Moors have been turning ginger beer and curocoa bottles into bombs.

It would not be strange if the world powers took up this novel means of warfare and trained certain of their troops to the use of the sling.

Before the train could be stopped the car struck an empty on a siding and lurched over into the creek. Miss Logan was thrown through the open door, striking on her head and breaking her neck. The other two were pinioned under the car.

PRESIDENT TAFT ON MARRIAGE

Thinks Women Ought Not Be Obliged to Marry Unless They Want to Do So

COLUMBUS, Miss., Nov. 5.—In the course of his address here yesterday President Taft said:

"I wish that every woman in the world did not have to marry unless she wanted to. I wish it was so arranged that every woman could decide for her entire happiness instead of going into matrimony simply because the life she selects is better than the one she has."

This was the beginning of a little sermon President Taft preached to 500 blue gowned girls of the industrial institute here.

"Good for you," cried a man far back in the crowd.

"I bet that's a bachelor," exclaimed Taft.

"I've got ten children," shouted the man.

Proceeding with the sermonette he said that the necessity for doing something for one's future is a mighty inheritance for anyone, boy or girl.

"The legacy of wealth is supposed to be a good thing, he continued, "but the necessity for hustle is the better thing. The boy who goes out into the world and makes his way perhaps does not realize this until after life, but after he has won success he understands.

"I am not a suffragist and do not believe in giving woman the ballot until the time comes when all the women want it.

"When they do they will get it. Up to the present time we have not treated woman quite right. We have not given them a fair show to enter those vocations they can fill as well and better than men. The establishment of schools proves we are making up for lost time."

The president finished his speech to the girls by saying he was glad he would not have any money to leave his boys.

"All I intend to leave them," he said, "is a good moral character, a fair education and a chance to make their own way. But for my daughter I intend to scrape together all I can so that she will get as good an education as she can obtain and will never be obliged to marry unless she pleases and can make her own way in the world if necessary."

The only side of the money question we hear is the one the Goddess of Liberty is on. The other side don't talk.

POLLY MAKES PEACE IN THE HOME

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The dove of peace which in this case happens to be a parrot reigns over the home of Edward Zearndt today and polly can have all the crackers she wants, for she efefcted an eleventh hour reconciliation between the Zearndts.

The couple were married a year ago at South Bend, Ind., and polly was a wedding present.

When Zearndt returned home last evening he discovered his wife had gone, taking a satchel and the talkative bird. Surmising t hat she had started for South Bend, her former home, the husband hurried to ehe La Salle street station.

"My wife's gone to the country. Hooray, hooray," came from a familiar voice that Zearndt recognized as polly's. Investigation revealed polly in her cage screeching over her confinement. Mrs. Zearndt was soon located. She and her husband hastened to the Harrison street police station where Lieut. Bonfield administered some sage advice.

"If it weren't for polly's sake I would not go back to you," said the wife.

"And if it weren't for polly," replied the husband, "you would have got away."

WEST VIRGINIA REGENTS TO VISIT

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 5.—The entire board of regents of the university of West Virginia will spend two weeks in January studying the University of Wisconsin in its organization, methods of instruction, and buildings. The visit is a direct result of the recent visit of State Superintendent Shawkey and other southern educators to Madison during a tour of the higher institutions of learning of the northwest.

Speaking before the board regarding his recent visit, Superintendent Shawkey said:

"Particular attention was paid to the university of Wisconsin at Madison, Wis. The university is the greatest state institution in the United States and is the only school situated in a state capital that attracts more attention than the capiol buildings. The superintendents spent two days studying the institution."

GAINED FLESH AND STRENGTH

This Wisconsin Woman, Cured of a Lingering Illness, Now Recommends the Tonic Treatment.

Mrs. D. Haldeman, of No. 690 Wentworth avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills of a lingering illness, which baffled the doctors. Her faith in the pills is naturally very great and the following statement of her case is given in the hope that it may be of value to others who still suffer.

"When I was twenty-two years old," she says, "I was in a coasting accident and nearly lost my life. For the following two years I was a miserable invalid and had given up all hope of ever getting well. My right side was injured and after the accident I failed rapidly. I became very thin, pale, nervous and felt completely worn out. I was confined to bed for days at a time. Then I would be able to get around for a while only to have to go back to bed. I can hardly describe how I felt. The pain in my right side was constant day and night. My heart palpitated on the least exertion. My appetite was so poor that for weeks I ate nothing but oranges. My head ached a great deal and I was unable to sleep at night.

"I was treated by three doctors and no two of them agreed as to my trouble. One said I had neuralgia, another said an abscess was forming and the third declared I had consumption. I doctored constantly for a year and a half but without avail. One evening my mother read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided I should try them. I faithfully used several boxes and was able to get a good night's sleep. I continued using the pills and was entirely relieved of the pain in my side and gradually gained in flesh and strength. I consider my cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as nothing short of marvelous."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood so that it can nourish and strengthen the weakened nervous system has made hundreds of cures in the most severe nervous disorders. This record of cures should merit a trial for the remedy which is guaranteed free from opiates and is entirely harmless.

GREEN BAY MARSHAL KILLED BY WOMAN

GREEN BAY, Wis., Nov. 5.—Frances Martel, it is said, by District Attorney John W. Reynolds, killed Deputy Marshal Otto W. Zimdars of De Pere on October 26. The official declares that the woman confessed to him, but contends the shooting was accidental.

According to her story, she and Zimdars had been in Green Bay and on returning had gone to his office in De Pere and she was looking in a drawer for a postal card when she saw his revolver. She picked it up and when she touched the trigger it went off.

Gigare, her former husband, whom she blamed for the murder, will be released.

BOYS TO PETITION PARENTS TO DANCE

"High" Lads will Again Go Before Board of Education to Use High School

The boys of the high school are determined to hold dances in the high school and as the board of education intimated that they would not object to this form of entertainment if the consent of the parents could be obtained it is likely that the fathers and mothers will be petitioned. A paper will be circulated and if the majority of parents sign it this request will again be taken to the board. Every member of the board said at the last meeting when Professor Benezet asked their opinion on it, that they did not object personnally but as it is the citizens of La Crosse whose interests they are looking after and not their own the privilege of holding dances in the high school building was turned down flat.

BRITISH COMMONS VOTE BUDGET

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The rank and file of the liberal majority in the house of commons which last night passed the budget by a vote of 379 to 149 are today deeply incensed at the action of the Irish Nationalists in abstaining from voting on the bill. Their votes were not needed but the liberals expected their support in view of the financial concessions to Ireland for which the bill provided.

The liberals are declaring today that the Irish home rule movement need expect no further support from the liberal party.

He was admitted to $10,000 bail. Conviction and the maximum penalty would result in fines of $150,00.

"RED WIDOW" TRIAL PARIS SENSATION

etbook in order to bring about his arrest that she might find out whether he knew anything of the crime.

"Officers of the law do those things, themselves," said Mme. Steinheil.

"They do not," snapped De Valles.

"I beg your pardon, monsieur," returned the prisoner, "a friend of mine who is a judge, told me he is convinced that Couillard knew more of the crime than he told and advised me to test him."

Here the prosecutor general jumped to his feet.

"You lie," he shouted.

Maitre Aubin was again aroused.

"Throughout this trial," he shouted, "the prosecutor general and the other judges have pursued tactics like this. Now I demand that the rights of the prisoner be respected and the Monsieur, the prosecutor general, keep himself within legal limits."

Again the murmur inimical to the officials swept over the spectators and De Valles was compelled to use his gavel to quiet it. The prosecutor general seemed to welcome the possibility of an encounter wth Aubin for he shouted back:

"I'll take what means I please in this case and I will suffer no dictation."

Aubin's reply was cut off by De Valles, who proceeded with the examination.

Officers Testify

After Mme. Steinneil left the stand the state began its directions. Three policemen who went to the Steinheil house in the Impasse Ronsin, were the first witnesses. Their testimony far from strengthened the prosecutor's case and seemed favorable to Mme Steinheil.

One of the policemen who found Mme. Steinheil bound and gagged in her bed the morning after the crime said that her cries seemed sincere when she was released from her bonds and that she was bound in a painful position.

Law Presumes Prisoner Guilty

The trial, under the code Napoleon, which presumed a prisoner guilty until his innocence is proved, has become an inquisition, a third degree in public. De Valles begins a line of questioning, pounding on detail after detail. The woman denies, explains and protests. The judge raises his voice, shouts question and accusation. She still protests. The prosecutor general comes to his aid and the two bearded men rise menacingly, firing question after question at the woman who sits in the center of the dark court. She raises her voice in an outcry, protesting her innocence. The inquisitors shout at her at the top of their voices, drowning her pleadings. Then she is rebuked for an outburst of temper.

The judges question the woman unmercifully about the contradictions in her own story on the occision of her former examinations. She weeps softly for a moment, then raises her hands above her head and cries: "I was forced to lie. They made me say what they wished. I am like a hunted beast."

All this affects the jury despite the occasional warning of Judge De Valles that they must not let their feelings sway ahem.

Would be a Second Pompadour

It has been said that Mme. Steinheil aspired to become a second Pompadour, a woman ruling France through lovers. But in all her political intrigues she never showed the brilliant cleverness of a Pompadour as she displays it in her unequa battle in the Palais de Justice today.

And her courage and cleverness are winning. Even those who believe her guilty are aroused by her courage and by the overwhelming odds against which she battles.

The French public, though, is noting the excessively severe inquisitorial methods of De Valles rather as an indication of kindness toward the prisoner. It is often the case in French courts that judges assume an unnecessarily callous attitude toward an accused person as a sign that he wishes a favorable verdict knowing that his severity arouses the pity of the jury.

Lefebvre Admits Story False

Lefebvre is in despair today over the failure of his attempt to save Mme. Steinheil. For several hours he protested that he was the murderer, that he and his companion disguised, he in a woman's dress, and his comrade in a long robe, had picked the lock of the Steinheil house and had killed Adolphe Steinheil and Mme. Jappy; that they then bound and gagged Mme. Steinheil and escaped.

But the pale youth could not withstand the baiting of the officials and finally admitted his story was false.

Lefebvre, whose real name is Rene Collard, will be examined by a commission to determine his sanity. If he is found mentally sound he will undoubtedly be sentenced to a long term in prison on a charge of hindering the administration of justice.

In questioning today De Valles declared the manager of a Jewish theater had rented two black robes on May 27, two days before the crime was committed. The robes were returned on May 31, the day after the crime. Mme. Steinheil has contended that the murderers, two of whom were men ,wore such robes.

S.S.S. THE REMEDY FOR SORES AND ULCERS

There is but one way to cure an old sore or chronic ulcer, and that is to remove the cause that produces and keeps it open. No matter where located, any sore that remains until it becomes chronic does so because of impure blood; the circulation constantly discharges its polluted matter into the place and it is impossible for nature to heal the sore. S. S. S. heals sores and ulcers by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of taint or impurity from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. No local application reaches below the infected flesh at the spot, and for this reason can have no curative effect on a sore or ulcer; while such treatment is being used alone, the germs and impurities are constantly increasing in the blood and the sore is bound to grow worse. When S.S.S. has cleansed the blood and enriched and purified the circulation the place begins to take on a more healthy appearance, the different symptoms show improvement, the flesh around the ulcer gets firm, new skin and tissues are formed, and aided by pure, rich blood, nature provides a perfect and lasting cure. Under the tonic and blood-purifying effects of S.S.S., the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be greatly benefited by its use. SPOTLIGHTS

SATURDAY'S BIG SHOW

The next attraction at the La Crosse theate, Saturday, matinee and night of this week will be H. H. Frazee's elaborate production of the La Salle Theater musical comedy success "A Girl at the Helm" which will be seen here for the first time. Billy Clifford is the chief fun-maker and is assisted by a bevy of sixty helpers, mostly pretty girls, big and little, who can sing, who dress well and who can dance.

"A Girl at the Helm" is a musical comedy with unique characters and situations quits as rigid as those usused by the best known plays without music. It would be interesting if there were not a song in it, but with a pleasant accompaniment of attractive music sung by well trained voices, vivacious dances and a dainty chorus introduced legitimately, the play has all the attractive features of both musical and legitimate comedy.

GET READY TO LAUGH

Coming to the La Crosse theater, Sunday, Nov. 7, matinee and night is that laughable Irish comedy, "The Irish Senator" with Mr. James McCabe in the title role, supported by a company engaged to assist Mr. McCabe in making people laugh and enjoy an evening's entertainment of good wholesome Irish comedy.

The company is under the direction of Martin Sheeley, who is also owner of The National Opera company.

JAMES K. HACKETT

Anyone who saw Henri Bernstein's powerful play, "Samson," in Paris or New York, or who has had the opportunity of reading it in published form, must realize that the effort of putting such a piece into English was a task of no easy order. The work was committed to Mr. James K. Hackett who was thereafter presented in it in New York by Charles Frohman all this season and who is now to appear at the La Crosse theter, Tuesday, Nov. 9, in the role originally created by the distinguished French actor, M. Guitry. The play has been descrribed as a compact drama of "The Thief" category, a remorseless exposition of the foibles and weaknesses of human nature, the culminating point being reached in the penultimate act in a scene of extraordinary force.

DEADLOCK ON TAX FIGURES STILL ON

Committeemen Refuse to Alter Their Plans; Kaiser Calls It Correct

Members of the La Crosse County Assessment committee are still deadlocked over the assessment figures submitted by Supervisor of Assessments James E. Kaiser, and neither the city nor the country supervisors will give in. Backed up by prominent city bankers and real estate men, the city members of the committee wish to increase the country end of the assessment about $172,000. The country members, on the other hand refuse to stand for any alterations of Mr. Kaiser's figures.

Interviewed today, Mr. Kaiser said that the figures as submitted to him were correct and authentic as far as it was in the power of the assessors to make them so. He admitted that there might be slight errors, but taken as a whole he declared the assessment figures are right.

Mr. Kaiser intimated that there will probably be slight changes made by the committee, but he is confident that the committee will submit his report to the county board without much alterations.

OPPONENTS OF THE ARMY CANTEEN WIN

Franklin Club Jury Decides it Should Not Be Restored—Plans on for Banquet

The jury consisting of J. S. Miller, Leland Mahoney and R. Gifford, returned a verdict of two for the negative and one for the affirmative on the question, "Resolved, that the canteen should be restored to the army," which was debated at the Franklin club last evening.

G. F. Flynn, the leader for the affirmative defined the canteen as a club for the soldiers and stated that there was liquor sold at this place. He spoke of the legislation against it as being directly due to the W. C. T. U. and stated that it was a foolish piece of law making. P. W. Mahoney, who assisted him, pictured the soldiers who frequented the streets of this city in the summer time and their conditions, stating that the lack of the canteen is responsible for it. A. H. Schubert, also speaking for the negative, gave a good argument for the canteen and stated that in his personal experience the men in the army enlisted after they had made a failure of everything else in life.

George Marvin showed the ill effects of the canteen and read several letters from Gen. Grant and Secretary Smith of the Y. M. C. A. and several other authorities. He showed that about 95 per cent of the desertion in the army had been directly due to the canteen. He was ably assisted by David Wartinbee and W. E. Barber. The latter speaker pleaded eloquently for the negative side and the future welfare of the soldier, bringing it into the home life as much as possible. He played to a great extent upon the inconsistency of the speakers on the affirmative side.

To Decide on Banquet

P. W. Mahoney was chosen as chairman for the banquet committee which will report next week if possible on the advisability of holding a banquet. A. H. Schubert is to be toastmaster and an ex-officio member of the committee. The other members are Professors Hayden and Hodgson, J. S. Miller, W. E. Barber.

Interest in the affairs of the club seem to be wanting. Last evening there was but 12 members present and some difficulty was experienced in proceeding about the business of the evening.

JUMPS FROM DANGER; FATES AGAINST HIM

How circumstances will conspire against a man was exemplified in Winona late last night when William Smith, aged about 75, suffered the loss of a foot under the wheels of a passenger train in the Milwaukee railroad yards.

Fast mail train No. 56, on the Milwaukee road, pulled away from that station at 10.11 p. m. A freight train had taken the siding just in front of the outgoing mail train. The freight and passenger, which was getting under a full head of steam, were moving in opposite directions on the tracks, just a few feet apart, when the passenger train broke in two. The automatic appliances brought both sections of the passenger to a stop in a few feet.

The train crew, hastening to the coach with the defective coupling, found a man pinioned beneath the car, groaning in agony. His left leg was caught between the wheel and the rail. The limb had been run over at the ankle.

Patrolman Al Winkels was immediately notified and medical assistance was summoned. The stranger was hurried to the General hospital, where an operation was performed, removing the foot just above the ankle.

Smith, for that was the name the man gave, had been riding the bumpers of the passenger train. The coupling he was riding was the one that gave way. He leaped to the side of the track but jumped directly into the freight train. The result was that he was hurled back to the rails and beneath the passenger train. Only one of the wheels passed over his leg.

The man said his home is in Chicago and that he is an Elk. The Elks' lodge officials were notified and one of the members went immediately to the hospital.

SILK TRAIN MAKES NEW RECORD RUN

The special silk train of the Milwaukee road which passed through this city yesterday morning, with right of way over the road in its great cross country race to New York, made record breaking time from this city to Chicago, a distance of 272 miles, making the run in five hours and four minutes. The Milwaukee to Chicago run, a distance of 85 miles, was negotiated in 79 minutes. The train now has a lead of over five hours on the Burlington train, which is carrying a similar load of silk.

STREET CAR WITH CROWD OFF RAILS

People Going to Work Are Shaken Up at Early Hour Today on the North Side

Loaded with passengers on their way to work this morning a street car jumped from the tracks at the corner of George and Sill streets at 8 o'clock and dashed madly for the curb.

Passengers on the car were badly shaken and jolted as the car bounded over the road and when it finally struck the gutter they were terrified to feel it sway as the wheels went into the soft earth. It almost tipped over when it stopped. No one was seriously injured.

A wrecking crew worked on the car all forenoon and it was brought back on the rails several hours after the accident.

CALL DOY OUSTED; PHONOGRAPH USED

This Experiment Is Being Tried in the Canadian Pacific Station at Winnipeg

An innovation in a branch of railroad work, which has been much discussed but which was never thought to be practical is now being given a thorough test in the Canadian Pacific station at Winnipeg, Man. This is the substitution of a phonograph for the supposed omnipresent call boy with a voice and an enunciation that is supposed to be clear and distinct. The matter has never been given much attention in local railway circles but if the arial at Winnipeg proves successful the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road may take it up and then La Crosse will no doubt become accustomed to the innovation.

The fact that a man possesses a powerful voice is no guarantee that what he says will be understood in a big railway station. This fact is often painfully brought home to the traveling public at almost any large railway station. There is a great difference between mere loudness and distinctness. This fact has led Mr. G J Bury, general manager of lines west on the Canadian Pacific, to introduce the phonograph to announce the arrival of passenger trains

Ordinarily a man with a loud voice calls out something, and the public is made aware of the fact that something is happening, but what it is nobody seems to know. Mr. Bury has substituted a phonograph for the loud man in the Winnipeg station of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and records have been prepared where distinct enunciation has been substituted for the usual jumble of sounds, and where a clear, steady voice supersedes a roar. The new arrangement if satisfactory, will be repeated in the Montreal station. Mr. Bury believes that to make the traveler understand what is said is the main thing, and if this is not done Stentor himself would be a useless railroad employe in the matter of train announcement.

Automatic announcers were tried for a time in the Grand Central station in New York city, but were found to be indistinct and were soon abandoned for the old fashioned human larynx.

SCOOPS IN $75,000 BY BLACK MAIL

Treasurer of the Big Four Is Ruined by Black Mailers—Woman in the Case

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 5.—C. L. Warriner, deposed treasurer of the Big Four, and prominent churchman of Wyoming, O., broke down on Wednesday night when, guarded by detectives, and in the presence of his wife the officials of the railroad he told how a man and woman had black mailed him of over $75,000 during the past three years.

While the interview was in progress, the man's son, Willard P. Warriner, secretary of the Standard Pulley company, entered the room. He threw his arms about his father's neck and sobbed: "Never mind, dad, I'll stick by you and you will come out O. K."

The woman in the case left Cincinnati Wednesday night shortly after the arrival of Warriner in the city. She is under surveillance. Her arrest may follow at any moment.

Four or five persons involved in the blackmailing are under the eyes of Pinkertons.

Prominent railway men of the Big Four and New York Central lines gathered in conference at the general office of the company, to begin the task of revealing the skein of false finance.

Warriner arrived in custody of detectives from New York yesterday and went directly to the Sinton hotel where the conference took place. Warriner told all. His wife sat through the ordeal, herself in tears. It is said a former clerk of the Big Four, having discovered that Warriner was involved used this method of extorting money from the railway officials.

GUARD ASSAILANTS OF MRS. ROCKHOLD

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 5.—A company of militia is now on guard over the two negroes by the name of Johnson, who were arrested at Gassaway, this state, last night, suspected of committing the atrocious assault on Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rockhold, near there, yesterday.

Charles Lewis, one of the three, was shot and killed but the others eluded the posse and they escaped lynching during the night only because a score of guards were put on to protect them till this morning when the militia arrived.

The jail at Gassaway was burned a month ago and the prisoners are being guarded in the office of the captain of the militia company. The entire country is aroused and the guard will be trebled tonight as it is feared there will be a general uprising against the two men.

SECOND QUARTER OF NORMAL OPENS

Next Monday will be Opportunity for New Students to Enroll with All First Advantages

The first quarter at the normal school closes Friday, the 12th, and the second opens on the Monday following, November 15. New pupils may enroll either on Saturday or on Monday, and may enter without inconvenience; for in many subjects beginning classes will be organized.

This will, moreover, be a good entering time for farmers' sons who have been kept out of school on account of fall work. These can enter at this time and pursue their studies during the two quarters before the spring work on the farm begins.

It has now been demonstrated that La Crosse will furnish good room and board to students at reasonable cost. A boarding club, with accommodations for as many as fifty students if necessary is now in full operation.

Exempt From Examinations.

The following fact should be known, that county superintendents in this section of the state have agreed to accept on teachers' certificates the standings made at the normal school. In this way students may, in a few terms spent here, cover all branches required for a license, and thus avoid taking the county examination.

When one remembers that two hundred thirty different pupils have presented themselves for work; that the present enrollment in the normal department proper is two hundred and five (at the end of this, the first quarter of the opening year of the eighth normal school in the state) —when everything is considered, the results of quarter one seem almost phenomenal. In the main, students have been contented, and their work satisfactory—in many cases of an unusually high order.

THE LATEST STYLES IN KNITTING AND CROCHETING

A New and Exclusive Sweater Design

Fashion insists that, for most purposes, sweaters must be "dressy." Here is an original Fleisher model that certainly fills this requirement. It has the lines and fit of a fashionably tailored coat with a richness and softness of texture that no cloth can imitate. Two boxes Fleisher's Germantown Zephyr, seven yards silk braid, and two silk frogs are all the materials required. In such a garment the stitch must be perfectly even, the texture firm, and it must retain its original shape. Fleisher's Germantown Zephyr will positively produce these results.

Full directions for making this and many other new and staple articles may be found in Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual. Also, a complete course of instruction in the various stitches.

WYETH'S

SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER

Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

The birthright of every man, woman and child—a full, healthy head of hair. If your hair is falling, if it is full of dandruff, or if it is faded or turning gray, it is diseased and should be looked after without delay.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER, a true Hair Tonic and Restorer, removes dandruff in a few days, stops hair falling in one week, and starts a new growth in a month.

and does not soil the skin nor injure the hair; but it is an ideal hair dressing that will restore faded and gray hair to natural color and keep the hair soft and glossy.

TIME IS DONE IN "RAG TIME"

Citizens who come to the county court house looking for officials who are not there during office hours, will be interested in learning how county officials keep time. There is a difernce in time ranging from thirty to forty minutes among La Crosse county clocks. Assuming that the clock in the probate judge's office is ten minutes slow, the one in the registrar's office is twelve minutes slow, the county clerk's clock is about twenty minutes off, the county treasurer's clock is off, and those in the circuit court room and offices on the upper floor are "on the bum."

In the basement clocks run pretty well with the exception of the one in Poor Commissioner Hauser's office. Here the clock is so unreliable that Mr. Hauser has ceased to go by it.

500,000 ACRES

Right in the heart of Wisconsin this giant tract of half a million acres—almost one thousand square miles, and nearly as large as Rhode Island—is now thrown open to farmers at fortune-building prices.

Back of this land is the story of the lumbermen. They held the land intact until the timber was cut, and now it is hurled on the market for quick sale.

Increase in Values

Land in this region, with the same soil and climate, is now selling for $100 to $150 an acre. But this vast tract is offered at only $6 to $20 an acre, with one-third down and ten years to pay the balance.

Located in the midst of dense population, with great markets in every direction these prices cannot long remain so low. Those who buy now will reap fortunes, as did the pioneers in early days.

$350 From Four Cows

Wisconsin is supreme in dairy products. The rich, golden butter and thick cream from here command a premium in every market.

Four cows usually yield $200 a year in butter and $150 in beef.

Clover and timothy grow so abundant as to bring $10 an acre in the meadow.

Write for our booklet giving all the facts about the soil, climate, roads, schools, churches, telephones and price of crops. This book is yours free—please write for it at once.

ANNAPOLIS.—Everything looks rosy for a great game when the Army and Navy meet in their classic game this fall. The Navy, as usual, has a light, fast team, and is relying on generalship and new, clever plays, originated by the coaches to win the games. The men are being drilled by the coaches in the forward pass.

"GYM" COURSE TO BE MADE PERMANENT

As the course of compulsory gymnasium work for girls has received a start from outside help, it is now sure that this work will be permanently instituted as a part of the high school curriculum, although it is not known at present where the money to maintain the course is coming from. The donation of Mrs. Hixon only covers the cost for one semester, but by next September the school board hopes to cut down enough on the expense list to be able to support this work.

When asked last night if the gift of Mrs. Hixon will be accepted, Mr. Luening, president of the board of education, said: "Certainly we will accept the money given us by Mrs. Hixon, but before it is officially accepted we must have the agreement to furnish the needed money in writing."

OBJECT TO DECISION ON TOM ASSMUSSEN

John A. Elliott, president of the "Minny" league has taken the case of Tommy Assmussen, the man who jumped from the Eau Claire club to tthe Boston National club, up with the national baseball commission and will file a protest with the national association when it meets in Memphis next week.

It is claimed that Asmussen, who was formerly a catcher and manager of the Eau Claire club still belongs to the club. President Elliott will leave for Memphis Saturday.

The Opulence of Autumn

Gold a-droppin' from the trees
In the sunlit air;
Gold a-sailin' on the breeze
An' lightin' everywhere.

'Course there are some folks on earth
Who will spoil the fun
Sayin' that there gold ain't worth
Fifty cents a ton!

But we're lucky, one and all,
That it's held so cheap.
We can have it every fall
In a splendid heap.

If it were the metal stout,
Sought by pride an' rank,
Some one sure would cart it out,
And hide it in a bank.

SPORTS

BADGERS DO NOT FEAR MINNESOTA

Have a Better Eleven Than Chicago and Should Have Better Luck Than the Midway Team

M'GOVERN IS OUT FOR GOOD

Loss of the Speedy Captain Is Worrying Coach Williams; Devau Is a Good Player

With about a week left before the big Minnesota game the Badgers are following a carefully planned system of practice, which will find them in the pink of condition when the game rolls around. All the regulars are out of the hospital and Wisconsin will present its best team to the Gophers. Interest in the game runs high and a record breaking crowd is expected.

Osthoff was back on the job at right tackle, and Buser was switched to right guard. Fucik played at Bunker's end, the latter still being on the hospital list. Anderson, who made a brilliant showing against Northwestern, played one of the halfback positions. The team was drilled hard and the men worked smoothly. The coaches are silent as to the possible outcome of the championship game with Minnesota, but if hard work will return Wisconsin a winner, the cardinal already has the championship tucked away. The impression has spread all over the west that Stagg's strenuous system of coaching this year cost Chicago whatever chance it may have had against Minnesota. The maroons were a battered up bunch of gladiators, and will remain so the rest of the season. Wisconsin's hospital list is not serious. Rather than take chances, the coaches have followed a slow developing process, which, by the way, has caused much honest difference of opinion. Apparently Barry and his assistants have felt that the scrimmage might safely be delayed. At any rate, there has been little of it, but now that the men are in fair condition, a strenuous program is to be inaugurated to harden them for a gruelling contest with Minnesota. The men know their signals and the plays that Barry has doped out. A few days of work against the scrubs and freshmen which is absolutely necessary to correct the tackling, may work wonders. Another thing that the coaches will endeavor to bring to the surface is that old Wisconsin fighting spirit. To date no particular effort has been made to arouse this, and there is no danger of bringing the team to a dangerously fine point.

From the standpoint of the spectators the Minnesota game should be marked by wonderful offensive work on the part of the Badgers. The team is essentially an advanced football team. With a line that on paper looks about as good as that of Minnesota, Wisconsin should have better luck with the forward pass than Chicago did. Big Walker, for instance, isn't going to scare the Badger linemen like he did Kelley of Chicago. Wisconsin will have nothing to cover up. The Minnesota game means everything. For the present Chicago is a blank. To be in the championship race Wisconsin must down Minnesota, and the team will show the best it has. The same goes with Minnesota, which means that a great game of new football is to be played at Camp Randall Nov. 13.

Now that Minnesota has finished celebrating the Chicago victory, Williams is wondering how he will replace Captain McGovern at quarterback. His absence means more than the absence of any other man on the Gopher eleven. Williams says that the loss of McGovern, one of the greatest captains Minnesota ever had, is irreparable. The Minnesota coach means it, too.

RECORD SALE FOR YALE-HARVARD GAME

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—When the time for application for tickets for the Yale-Harvard football game at Cambridge closed on Wednesday nearly 18,000 tickets, representing more than half of the seating capacity of the Harvard stadium, had been spoken for. The number of applications is unusually large in view of the fact that the allotment of tickets was cut this year from three to two for each applicant.

For the Princeton game to be played here 26,000 applications have been received from Yale men, while Princeton has taken 8,500, which leaves the ticket department 1,500 short, as but 33,000 can be accommodated on the Yale stands.

If the baby would sleep all night, the house would catch fire, or something else would happen to keep you awake.

We are told t hat two heads are better than one, but we believe that one is better than a dozen of some brands.

TIGERS FEAR THE DARTMOUTH TEAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Princeton is the only one of the front rank teams of eastern football that seems to be in danger of an upset in tomorrow's gridiron struggles. The Tigers line up against the strong Dartmouth team, a team that hs not yet been scored on, and a team that seems fully as strong as last year's Dartmouth combination, which suffered but one defeat during the year and that by Harvard.

Cornell against Harvard, Brown against Yale and Lafayette against Pennsylvania are expected to put up stiff games but neither has a chance for victory unless its opponent showed a decided reversal of form.

The most interesting news from Cambridge is that the Harvard coaches do not plan to put West, McKay, Gil Brown nor Corbett in the game against Cornell at the start of the contest. These men are all counted regulars but they have not been played for the last two games and their continued absence from the lineup, notwithstanding that they are all in condition to play, leads to the belief that the coaches have found the men now filling the former stars' places at least the equal of their predecessors.

Princeton has shown such improvement in the last two days that she is now a favorite in what little betting is being done on the Dartmouth game.

In Brown, Yale will meet her hardest opponent of the season and a check to the blues' top heavy scores is expected. Yale plans to use two sets of backs and will likely play a number substitutes in the line before the game is over.

FOOTBALL CRITIC BOOSTS DEVEAU

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—A local critic pays the following tribute to Jimmy Deveau, who will play quarterback for Minnesota against Wisconsin the absence of Capt. McGovern:

"Minnesota is out of a regular quarterback but it has 'something just as good.'

"Minnesota must have a substitute quarterback to take the place of Capt. Duffy McGovern, and there seems no doubt that Jimmy Deveau is eminently qualified to take the job.

"When Capt. McGovern was dragged off the field of battle toward the close of the Chicago game those who root and cheer for Minnesota immediately painted a black border around the picture of their young hopes for the conference championship.

"But that should not have been. The youngster who rushed into the breach and directed the final plays of Minnesota's attack proved that he was a field general and tactician second to none but McGovern himself, and with two weeks in which to as first man for the job he may do everything that his captain has done.

"He clearly showed that he was calm and long headed, and that he knew that strength and his own team as clearly as he had divined the weakness of his opponents. From the side lines he had learned as much as McGovern had discovered in the midst of the fray. Those who watched the game and who came to the conclusion that Minnesota will down Wisconsin have unanimously decided that the Gophers will be as ably directed by Deveau as though the plucky little McGovern was screeching out the signals himself!"

IMPORTANT GAMES FOR WESTERN TEAMS

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Nearly every game left on the schedules of the ten leading schools of the middle west is an important gridiron contest and in the next three Saturdays there will be many changes in the relative standings of these teams.

Chicago has three hard games in a row—Northwestern, Cornell and Wisconsin. Northwestern has Chicago and Illinois. Minnesota has Wisconsin and Michigan. Illinois has Indiana Northwestern and Syracuse. Wisconsin has Minnesota and Chicago. Iowa has Drake, Ames and Kansas. Michigan has Notre Dame and Pennsylvania and Minnesota. Indiana has Illinois and Purdue. Purdue has Wabash, Rose Poly and Indiana. Nebraska has Kansas and Denver.

A glance at the work on the gridiron in the middlewest during the season up to date shows that the changes in the rules have made the smaller weaker teams a factor in scoring against their larger, heavier opponents.

In the game of last Saturday four of the seven contests which took place saw the defeated eleven score on the winner—Chicago on Minnesota; Northwestern on Wisconsin; Purdue on Illinois, and Iowa on Missouri. Syracuse could not cross Michigan's line. St. Louis did not score on Indiana, and Doane was unable to register against Nebraska.

HART FOR PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL LEAGUE

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The report that an actove campaign for the election of James A. Hart, former owner of the Chicago National league baseball club, to the presidency of the National league, is now under way, was confirmed today by Hart himself. The former Cub boss admitted that Charles W. Murphy had asked him for permission to use his name but Hart would not say whether he had consented or not.

It is understood that Hart is not anxious to become an active candidate but is willing to accept the place if it is offered to him.

SEEK BIG GAME NEXT THURSDAY

Large Number of Hunters will Go for Deer; the Law Restricts This Year

In anticipation of the open season for hunting deer in Wisconsin which begins next Thursday, Nov. 11 and extends for the last twenty days of the month, La Crosse sportsmen are getting out their heavy rifles and preparing to journey northward in quest of venison.

There is no special rush to get in early this year however inasmuch as the new game law does not permit the hunter to kill more than one deer while in former years two were allowed each nimrod.

The new law is expected to prevent the killing of a great many deer, inasmuch as formerly the successful hunter in a party of three or four could continue to hunt and ship his deer under the name of some companion who had an extra shipping tag after the hunter's own was within one deer of being exhausted.

The new law in part is as follows:

It shall be unlawful to hunt

Any deer, with a dog or dogs at any time;

Any deer in the "night-time," as that term is defined in section 4637a of the statutes;

Any deer in the water or on the ice of any stream, lake, or pond at any time.

Any deer by means of any pit, pitfall, trap, or snare at any time;

Any deer by the aid of artificial light at any time;

It is made unlawful to place any salt in any place for the purpose of enticing deer thereto or to construct, occupy, or use any elevated scaffold or other device for the purpose of hunting, watching for, or killing deer;

Any moose at any time.

It shall be unlawful and is prohibited for any resident to kill more than one deer or any non-resident to kill more than one deer in any one year, or to have in his possession the skin of any deer when it is in the red coat or the skin of any fawn when it is in the spotted coat (except when such skins are possessed as otherwise provided by law.)

FOR CARL SCHURZ PROFESSORSHIP

MADISON ,Wis., Nov. 5.—A campaign to raise the remaining $30,000 necessary to establish the $60,000 Carl Schurz memorial professorship at the university of Wisconsin will be organized tonight when the executive committee of the association will meet at the Deutscher lcub in Milwaukee. Gen. F. C. Winkler, the president will meet the other members of the committee, and plans for a systematic canvas of the alumni and citizens of the state will be begun at once. It is intended to raise the remaining amount before the first of January, so that arrangements may be made to secure a German professor to lecture at the university at the earliest possible date. It is proposed to have this memorial professorship filled by a professor from a German university who will lecture to the students of the university of Wisconsin one semester each year. It is intended in this way to secure lectures by distinguished German scholars in history, literature, science, engineering, medicine and theology.

The Wisconsin branch of the National German Alliance is to assist in raising funds for this professorship.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 524 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FOUR AMERICAN CANDIDATES FOR RED HAT

ROME.—The sudden change of the pope's plans, which brings about a meeting of the consistory in December and another in the spring, again brings up the question of who will be honored from the United States.

There are at present no fewer than 17 vacancies in the Sacred College of Cardinals, and high hopes are entertained by Catholic dignitaries all over the world that at the coming consistory Pope Pius X may bestow the red hat upon them.
